

With potentially hundreds of thousands of BPL devices radiating in the 2-80 MHz spectrum, it would seem that the composite noise generated by these devices will all but make the spectrum unusable unless other users raise their power to compensate.